A FAMINE IN THE LAND.

THE PUBLIC DOMAIN TO BE EXHAUSTED IN TEN YEARS.

Impulse Trembles at the Prospect of a Family to Each 100 Acres and Wants the Full Day Part 05-A. Current of Foreign Congress Looking—Official Notes.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—In explaining the senate substitute for the house bill repealing the pre-emption, timber-culture and desert land laws in the senate Wednesday, Dolph said the senate proposition is a pre-emption and timber-culture act, with clause saving the right of actual settlers, and required that persons taking desert land shall pay $1.25 an acre for it, and shall expend a certain amount of money each year ($1 an acre) for a term of three years, for the purpose of reclaiming the land. The senate amendment also provides that where a person has never taken the benefit of the pre-emption law and night, but for this bill, has been in possession of the land for a certain period of time, he shall be deemed a homesteaded entry; thus providing that to persons who are entitled to the benefit of the pre-emption law, the law shall be deprived of a homestead from the public land because of the passage of this bill.

Legals understood the authorities on the subject of public lands to hold that, according to the rate of entry heretofore prevailing, the next ten years would exhaust the supply of arable land in the United States. This being so, there was reason for the repeal of the land laws excepting the homestead law, in order to postpone the time when there should be no more public lands. The homestead law would give 160 acres, and there would be limited to that after the repeal of these objectionable acts. Legals regretted, however, that the committee on public lands had not concluded to repeal the desert land act. If the pre-emption and timber-culture act were objectionable, the desert land act was presumably so. The friends committed under it had been extensive, and could be handled by corporations while the pre-emption and timber-culture act could be handled only by individuals. The exemption of the desert land act from repeal would perpetuate the worst form of aggregated land monopoly—its monopoly for cattle raising. By postponing the time when our supply of arable public lands should be exhausted, we would postpone the time of being brought face to face with the consideration whether we should restrict immigration, or that other and more dangerous consideration, whether we should enter on a new career of conquest, for the purpose of acquiring, in the north or in the south, new territory over which our surplus population might spread.

Plumb said private individuals could not construct the irrigation works necessary to make desert lands cultivable, and it seemed best to continue efforts in that direction. The work must be done by associated efforts. As to frauds, they were greatly exaggerated.

FOR THIS RELIEF MUCH THANKS.

The House Worries Through the Legislative Bill—Senate Transactions.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—A memorial of the Massachusetts legislature urging congress to take steps to protect American sailors was presented in the senate Wednesday, and Dolph introduced a bill authorizing the president to retaliate in kind against any nation denying privileges to American sailors. The senate went into executive session for about an hour and upon reopening the doors, Wilson spoke in favor of making the rate of fourth class matter postage two cents an ounce. The invalid general bill and the military academy bill were passed, Plumb demanding the yeas and nays on the latter, complaining that West Point was too exclusive, and that he would vote for any more money for it than civilization itself. On the vote, Plumb, Chase, Teller and Wilson voted nay. Allison said there were now no appropriations left in the hands of the committee. The house still had five and the end of the fiscal year had two weeks distant. The bill repealing the pre-emption timber-culture and desert-land laws was taken up, the senate was divided upon having substituted its own bill for that of the house, the principle difference being that the senate bill continues the sales of desert lands and requires $1 per acre per annum for three years to be expended upon them by the purchaser in irrigating. Blair moved that the land should be sold in no larger bodies by a single owner than 640 acres. The matter was debated at length, but the senate adjourned without action.

In the house resolutions offered by Wilkins and Grosvenor of Ohio opposing reduction of the tariff on wool were adversely reported, and in committee the legislative bill was considered and amended slightly and the bill completed. The committee then rose, and the house rejected the increase of salaries of assistant treasurers at Chicago, St. Louis, Denver and San Francisco, and then passed the bill. Records were taken until 1:15 p. m., at which time the house passed twenty-five private bills, among them one granting to Mrs. Con Grant the franking privilege and another providing relief for the survivors and widows and children of the dead of the Jeannette expedition, after which the house adjourned.

Some More Land in Trouble.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The secretary of the interior has recommended that suit be brought by the attorney-general to cancel the patents issued for the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad for the even sections in Allen county, Kas., lying in the adjacent limits of the road where overlapped by the grant limits of the Leavenworth, Lawrence & Galveston road, and for the even sections in the common indemnity limits of the two roads. The decision proceeds solely on the interpretation of the public land laws, leaving all questions of innocent purchasers to be determined by the department of justice or by the courts.

Nonchance Who Got There.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Among the nominations confirmed by the senate are the following: D. L. Hawkins, of Missouri, assistant secretary of the interior; M. S. Taylor, receiver of public money; Marquette, Mich.; W. P. Foxon, registrar of land office, Detroit, Mich.; A. P. Swineford, of Michigan, governor of Alaska; G. W. Olick, postmaster, Topeka, Kan.; and the following postmasters: H. E. Walworth, Laporte, Ind.; J. B. Looney, Hancock, Mich.; W. M. Green, West Bay City, Mich.; J. W. Taylor, Evansville, Ind.; W. P. Hain, Peru, Ind.; W. H. Evans, Princeton, Ind.

A Retaliatory Bill by Dawes.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Mr. Dawes introduced a bill in the senate Wednesday to protect the freedom of commercial intercourse. The bill authorizes the president, whenever satisfied that American vessels are denied the privilege of purchasing supplies, salt, etc., in foreign ports, prohibit by proclamation vessels of such offending countries from entering United States ports or exercising such commercial privileges in them as he may define in his proclamation. Violation of the president's proclamation leaves the vessel liable to seizure and confiscation.

Master Blake Lodging Houses of Them.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Acting Secretary Fairchild of the treasury department, upon complaint from the collector at Austin, Tex., that the United States district attorney, and marshal, and the deputy treasurer, occupied rooms in the public buildings for sleeping purposes, thus materially increasing the government gas bills, has addressed letters to the Austin collector as well as conditions of public buildings elsewhere, directing that hereafter public buildings shall not be used for sleeping purposes.

Detailed to Inspect State Troops. WASHINGTON, June 17.—Major John M. Hays, of the Seventh cavalry, has been detailed to visit the camps of the several organizations of the Minnesota National guard during their encampment at New Tim, Minn., and at Bear Lake, Minn. Major Gaines Jackson, of the Twenty-fifth infantry, has been detailed to visit the camps of the several brigades of the Illinois National guard near Springfield, Ill.

The Defense of Oleomargarine.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Professor Babcock, of the state board of health of Massachusetts, and Mr. George H. Webster, of Armour & Co., Chicago, made arguments before the senate committee on agriculture Wednesday on the oleomargarine bill. Both gentlemen protested against the passage of the tax bill, and referred at length to the purity and wholesomeness of oleomargarine.

To Pay the Rent in Advance.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Senator Wilson, from the committee on postoffices and post roads, reported favorably Wednesday on a bill directing the postmaster general to pay the amount of rent now due, or to become due, on buildings leased and now used as postoffices by contract, and duly signed by the postmaster general until the expiration of said lease.

A Michigan Man Rejected.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The nomination of J. C. Sholes, of Michigan, to be chief justice of Arizona territory, has been rejected by the senate, the ground of objection being that the nominee is not a citizen of the United States.

Homesteads Going to Ohio.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Gen. Rosencrans, registrar of the treasury, will leave Washington in a day or two for London, Ohio, where he will attend the unveiling of a soldier's monument by the Grand Army of the Republic.

ANOTHER HOME RULE NUT.

For British Statesman to Crack—Secretary to Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 17.—In Tuesday's election for members of the provincial parliament the district issue presented to the voters was that of succession from the Dominion of Canada. The success party is led by the Hon. W. S. Fielding, the premier, and his triumph at the polls shows that he is supported by the mass of the people. The premier opened the campaign with an address in which he declared that "the time has come when the people of Nova Scotia should once more make an effort to obtain release from the union into which they were forced." The issue of succession was thus fully raised at the elections. Whether Nova Scotia will be permitted to secede is another question. The legislature of Nova Scotia voted in favor of confederation in 1868, but there was always a strong anti-union party in the province, and when the colonial conference met in London two representatives of this party were in attendance to protest. Their antagonism, however, was unheeded, and the "British North America act" went through parliament almost without opposition. This act makes provision for the admission of new provinces to the Dominion, but provides no method whereby a province that is once in the Dominion can get out of it. So the Nova Scotians will probably follow the example of the Irish and carry their appeal for home rule to Westminster.

Agreement on the Iron Workers' Scale.

PITTSBURGH, June 17.—The tedious labors of the conference committee of the Annual Associated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and the Western Iron and Steel Association, terminated at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. The result was a compromise on the proposals he raised at the convention. The only important alterations of the revised scale were: referring to the roll-turners scale, it was agreed to postpone the demands for one year. The manufacturers also expressed a desire to leave the nail scale in the hands of the Western Nail association. It was agreed to postpone further consideration of this clause until about an hour and a half the nail manufacturers will have a full representation at the conference. This scale goes into effect on July 1 and holds good for one year.

Hartington's Programme.

LONDON, June 17.—Lord Hartington has issued his election manifesto to the electors and announced his policy. He is not certainly not prepared to commit himself to the details of any of the plans proposed for the government of Ireland, but certain conditions may be clearly stated which are essential to any plan. Parliament ought to continue to represent the whole and not a part of the kingdom, and the powers which may be conferred upon subordinate local bodies should be defined, not extended. The subjects delegated should be clearly defined and the right of parliament to control and revise the action of subordinate legislative and administrative authorities should be asserted. It is not easily the hands of justice ought to remain in the hands of authority which is responsible to parliament.

Railway Consolidation Formally Effected.

GALVESTON, Tex., June 17.—The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad company, Wednesday, formally assumed control of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railroad company, Messrs. H. V. Adams, H. B. Adams and Komper, of the latter company, resigning from the directory, and being replaced by Messrs. Strong, Barr, Nicholson and Snyder, of the Atchison company, forming a majority in the board. The St. Louis extension will be pushed forward to connect the two systems, and it is thought the junction will be effected within six months.

Will Give Beecher a Rousing Farewell.

New York, June 17.—Mr. Beecher's friends do not propose to leave him depart for Europe in the usual matter of fact way. His congregation and about 200 prominent citizens of Brooklyn have chartered the steamer Columbia, and with Mr. Beecher at their head on board, they will leave New York on Saturday morning and go down the bay to Sandy Hook, where the Europa will stop and take Mr. Beecher aboard.

Scarcity of Wood in Italy.

Wood is so scarce in "sunny Italy" that it is actually sold by the pound; and yet it is the only fuel used by the common people. In Venice we saw steaming hot boiled potatoes and other cooked food for sale in the groceries. Every device is resorted to to save fuel. American tree-murderers ought, by all means, to see Italy as a warning of what a country stripped of wood may become. The climate of southern and middle Italy is much more agreeable to us tourists very like that of America. There is the same brilliant sunlight and fierce heat. The dust is blinding. Mountain and valley are as parched and brown as the Ohio river valley hill-side in August. We have now journeyed over half of Italy in one direction and another and I have yet to see the first good-sized tree. They are sawn, little, dried-up stumps such as the American farmer would chop down and throw away. There are not very many even of that kind—Foreign Legat.

They Will Surely Find You.
They are looking for you everywhere.
Drafts of air in unexpected places, going from hot rooms to cool ones, carelessly in changing clothing; in short anything which is a "common" in the head. Unless arrested this kind of cold becomes seated in the mucous membrane of the head. Then it is untreatable. In any and all stages this disease always exists in the head. Safe, certain, agreeable. Price 50c.

FRAUDS IN PRECIOUS STONES.
How Colored Gems are Imitated—The "Doublet" Method of Description.
"Suppose there is as much fraud in colored stones as there is in diamonds."
In comparison to the stones of both kinds that are sold the fraud in colored stones is much greater than in diamonds.
There is a system of imitating diamonds
by which rubies, sapphires and emeralds of inferior color are made to resemble the fine colored stones. This is done simply by coloring the outside, or point, with a lasting solution of the true tint. This gives the whole of the stone the desired appearance, and when it is not so expert can discover the fraud until the stone is washed. Even when washed I would not undertake to detect the fraud in every case. As an example, last year
I bought, during my periodical visit to London, what appeared to be an extraordinary ruby, weighing about three and one-half carats. I gave over $1,000 for it. We had it in stock for about four months and had shown it to some of the best judges in the country. Not one of them found fault with anything about the stone except the price. Finally my head man, while showing it to a customer, had his suspicions aroused as to the genuineness of the color. After a deal of trouble we at last got the stone into its natural state and found that it was worth about $750. I returned it to the firm I had bought it of, which, I trust, was responsible. The firm had nearly a whole lot of stones like it, and had purchased the ruby for cash in the open market at Amsterdam. This is the only instance, where any large amount was at stake, that I have met with since the last few years. Respectable jewelers are always more particular when they buy their colored stones from than their diamonds.

—The refreshing showers of late have revived the drooping spirits of the farmers as well as renewed the growth of vegetables.
—The horse shows with the driver of ancient type crying "trawleries for sale," is noticeable in our village every day.
—Jas. Crow has wagon loads of choice berries for sale. Leave orders for any amount.
—The baseball club of Center and Magnolia won the Evansville boys
Saturday last. Get to the front boys.
—Wm. H. Dean is getting the material for a large stock barn.
—Mr. Peter Draht has the largest Norman stallion ever owned in the town.
Also a 3-bred that is very active and easy.
—Boris, of Evansville, can be found two days of the week at the residence of Geo. Holloway, with his imported Norman horses. They are choice and will bear inspection.
—Lawyer Sale passed through our village Monday morning, accompanied by his little sister to her school in the Fisher settlement. Mr. Sale seemed much pleased with the appearance of things in the center of the town.
—John E. Olin is visiting his Crow relatives in Center and seems much pleased to find them so good looking and
accomplished, but says he is sorry to find
so large a percent of the present hard-
frozen families.

Next Sunday the county Sunday school workers will visit Center, part going to the Grove church and part to the Disciple, after which the friends will be entertained at the Disciple church in the center of the town.
—Miss Little and Annie Olin and have been teaching in the Grammar school in Center. Miss Olin is visiting her relatives in Center and seems much pleased to find them so good looking and
accomplished, but says he is sorry to find
so large a percent of the present hard-
frozen families.

Children's Day was observed at the M. E. church in the morning, and in the evening a Sunday school concert exercise was given by the school.
—Miss Myrtle Sweet left Wednesday
for a month's visit with friends in Ashland, Wis.
—Mrs. Byron Walker, of Janesville, is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sweet.
—Tobacco eating is the order of the day now. Recent rains have been very drying, and the crops of tobacco are small. Some plants were getting very large and would have had to be put out soon.

Our public school held a picnic last Friday, in Mrs. Olin's grove and were entertained by Mrs. Olin, her son, Miss Anne Kline, and Miss Flora Alexander, with their schools. The scholars were all served with plenty of tea and lemonade and had a grand good time.
—We understand our school board have secured a new building for the school and are planning to build a new school house. This means success and a good school. We know of no teachers who do any more faithful and honest work in the school than the teachers of the new school. It is due to their efforts that our school is kept up to the high standard which it has. We say this with all due respect to the efforts of a faithful school board.
—The H. G. MacArthur occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church last Sunday morning. Although suffering from a severe cold, he gave the audience
a fine address, taking for the text, 1st
Cor. 13: 12, "We must learn to differ from one another."
—Miss May Collins, of Sirens, Nobrasse, is spending a short vacation with her aunt, Mrs. E. D. Mowley. Miss Collins is attending the Normal school, and will spend the year, to prepare for the work of teaching.

—We have a citizen in our village who has been paying his poll-tax for four years since he was exempted by age. The story goes that he did not know and until his aunt told him, and now he asks for a rebate. This is surely a hard case.
Too much idler, we suppose.
—Mr. Ed. Hopkins has put on a new roof on his house, and the old long plank adds much to the looks of the place.
—Boats to let, enquire of "Old Corp" at the mill.
—D. C. Stark has an old fashioned Yankee rig for breaking oats. It consists of a long pole fast at one end and a wheel at the other and turns in a circle with a frame work for talls. In this rig he makes them come to time and gives them the correct time. Dr. Stanley says that Dr. Stanley says more than an ordinary rush of business for this season of the year.

—Frank Verick started Tuesday
on another trip over the road for the Janesville and Madison Telephone Company. He is going to the office of the company, on Thursday July 1st, 1886.
Good speakers will be in attendance.
Many by the Plymouth Cornet band.
Everybody is cordially invited. Come out and bring your lunch baskets and have a general good time.
By Order of Committee.

THE CLOSING SESSION

Of the State Horticulturists' Summer Meeting Held in Apollo Hall To-day.

Fruit and Flowers in Profusion.

What Was Done—Interesting Papers.

Other Matters.

As was stated in the Gazette the horticulturists present at the annual meeting of the state society spent part of yesterday afternoon in looking over the fruit farm of Mr. Frank Loudon, about a mile west of the city. The display of strawberries was very fine, and all expressed themselves as highly delighted with the visit, as well as with the feast of berries and cream set out under the trees by Mrs. Loudon.

The evening session was more largely attended than were the two preceding it, about seventy-five delegates being present. Mr. B. S. Hoxie, of Evansville, read the first paper, his subject being "How and Why we are Benefited by Horticulture." The topic was handled very comprehensively and Mr. Hoxie was listened to with great interest. He was followed by Mrs. K. B. Towne, of Chicago, who spoke upon "Deeds of Honor" giving her hearers many valuable ideas. After the papers, Mrs. J. B. Day read the charming selection "The First Settlers Story" and was forced to respond to an encore.

THIS MORNING

The first topic was "Varieties of Strawberries." The discussion was led by F. W. Loudon, of this city, brought out points of great interest to fruit growers; although, as Mr. Loudon said, the subject was too broad to be handled at that time in anything more than a general way.

Fruit growing in California was spoken of by J. S. Stickney, his remarks being well received. Afterwards he brought up the current culture, and spoke briefly upon the different points.

Prof. A. B. Seymour, of the State University, who was to have spoken upon parasites, wrote that he would be unable to be present, but sent a paper that he had prepared upon the subject. This paper is published in another column.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION

was opened with a discussion upon the experiments that are valuable in horticulture. This was to have been led by A. L. Hatch, of Illinois, but that gentleman not being present, his place was taken by A. G. Tuttle, of Barbours.

Mrs. Willard, of Depeere, read a carefully prepared paper upon the plant life of the Arctic region, and the meeting closed with a discussion regarding the work of the society. To the course of this J. C. Plumb made some very well considered remarks upon the nursery frauds by which farmers all over the country are being swindled, and the blows struck at these impositions were received with evident appreciation by the audience.

The prizes so far awarded were to the following exhibitors:

For apples—G. J. Kellogg and G. J. Kelly.

For strawberries—F. K. Loudon, G. J. Kellogg, J. C. Plumb, J. B. Smith, J. W. Hancock, J. G. Williams, and B. Spence.

For vegetables—J. M. Smith and S. L. Miller.

Miss Bertha Schell has just brought in this afternoon the finest collection of hybrid roses on exhibition, which, with the large collections of fruits and flowers will be sold this evening from 7 to 8 o'clock. All are invited.

The meeting has been quite successful, much more so than was at first expected. The society has done a great deal of work for the advancement of fruit growing in the state, and its work is well understood among the Wisconsin farmers, Officers and members have all worked hard in its behalf and they should be congratulated on the success they have achieved.

Choral Union Concert.

The Choral Union held an enthusiastic session last evening, and completed arrangements to give their third semi-annual concert. This concert will be given at the Congregational church Thursday evening, June 24th, and will consist of selections from the opera of Martha, the Creation, and a few choice miscellaneous numbers. Mrs. Abbie Carrington, the celebrated prima donna of Milwaukee, assisted by the famous Bach orchestra of Milwaukee, will aid in making the concert the best of the series. The Choral Union, under Prof. Torrens, is showing marked improvement, reflecting credit upon itself as well as the efficient leader.

That the work of this musical society is appreciated by the people of Janesville is evident by the liberal patronage extended at all of their entertainments. The June concert will draw a crowded house and the Gazette is pleased to assure the public that the concert will be choice and superior to anything yet attempted by the Choral Union. Remember the date, June 24.

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 63 degrees above zero. Clear with northwest wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 74 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy with northwest wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 58 and 75 degrees above zero.

The New Condition of Things.

"Dan" asked the president as he unhooked the front and laid it gently in the basket, "what's in that black bottle?"

"Bait,"

"I catch on," said the president. "My hook is now bare."

Then he suddenly turned pale, and his knees knocked together.

"Dan," he whispered with bated breath, "I forgot—have you a love about you?"—E.

TROUT FISHING.

Return of the Members of the Angler-Worm Club.

(By One Who Welcomed Their Return.)

Yesterday evening a most jolly delegation of the Angler-worm club returned from their annual trout fishing excursion up the Peubigo.

The party consisted of that veteran sportsman, Admiral Bump, commander-in-chief of the expedition; Commodore Valentine serving as steward, while St. John superintended the more saucy requirements of the expedition, filling the responsible position of chief vizier.

Chaplain Sherer most efficiently attended to the spiritual wants of the "wanderers" and as amateur naturalist collected valuable "notes and observations" on "Grass Canadensis—their adaptability for targets and economic value considered from a sportsman's standpoint." 1 vol. 8vo, profusely illustrated, Et. Atkinson, 1886, price $25; leaving Sager as the only available "orew" and high private of the company.

Shortly after six o'clock Tuesday evening Anglerworm hall was filled with a most select and appreciative audience—true disciples of old Isaac, and most efficient masters of that distinguished accomplishment of all juvenile sportsmen: viz, "fien" or "lying." (Webster is a little mixed on this word.)

The meeting was called to order by "England," who has faithfully served as president pro tem during the absence of the chief.

Brother St., being called for, proceeded to relate his experience, as follows:

"I tell you, boys, you got one of them 'ere trout about so long (6 inches) on the end of your line, and not a-knowin' or understandin' the nature of the critter, crack! boys, whoop! but you'd imagine you had a piker as big—as—as—"

—a leg or sawlog; and the doctor gave an immense sigh, like unto the contented bee who hath downed a clover field,—the very picture of contentment.

Some of the less informed and consequently more skeptical members, seemed somewhat uneasy, even hinting that Doc was a little off, the ex-sharif even overstepping the bounds of sportsman's etiquette, by "figuring" on the "horsepower" necessary to land one of the "critter."

This "horsepower" allusion was too much for the steward's Socratic rod, and Charley immediately sent a load of "speckled beauties" at the ex—"caught on!"

Dr. now took a hand in the fracas, and not until each and every one of the stay-at-home members of the club were duly punished and "trout for breakfast" was on the bill of fare of every member, did the chaplain close the evening's entertainment with the following graphic, and, we believe truthful, account of the "trip of the wanderers" and the "shootin' of the critter":

Lean on the banks of the trout brook

A lying-bow the boy trust was took

Lean under the dark pines' shade,

A lying bow the critter was made.

Lean under the old stump tree,

A lying bow the critter was made.

Lean and lying from morn till eve,

Lying and lying without reprieve.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. E. Hathorn, of the fourth ward, started this morning for Chester, Nebraska, to visit his sons, intending to be absent about a month.

—Captain Chas. Tegerroff, of the Beloit City Guards, is in the city this afternoon, attending the meeting of the officers of the First regiment, W. N. G. at the Grand.

—Mr. W. G. Crane, of the firm of Williamson, Crane & Co., left for the east to-day, to look up machinery for their new factory. When complete they will have one of the finest and best equipped soap factories in the west.

Commencement at Beloit.

Beloit Free Press: "The coming commencement at Beloit, the thirty-ninth promises to be one of the most interesting and important in the history of the college. The programme for the week is unusually full and rich. On Sunday, June 24, President Chapin delivers the baccalaureate sermon, and Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, of the Christian Union, addresses the Christian Association. On Monday candidates are examined for admission, the trustees meet, and Prof. L. S. Curtis, of the Chicago Theological Seminary, addresses the Ardenian Union. On Tuesday afternoon, also, the seniors are to have their class day, an institution prize declaration, the business meeting and dinner of the Alumni Association, and the president's reception. The literary exercises of the Alumni also come on Tuesday evening following, an oration by A. K. Sprague, of '76, and a poem by T. L. Wright, of '80. Wednesday, the 30th, witnesses the graduating exercises at the senior class, the commencement dinner and the senior concert.

A new feature on the programme for commencement day is a short address by Justice Harlan of the United States supreme court. This will come between the valedictory and the conferring of degrees. The graduating class numbers sixteen and has made a fine record for manliness and scholarship. It is to be succeeded by a class of equal size. It is expected that the railroads will return commencement visitors at reduced rates. A large attendance from abroad is already assured.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.

Three thousand dollars worth of oil paintings given away as follows:

Any one buying dry goods of us to the amount of $20 will be entitled to a choice, free, from our collection of fine 14x22 genuine oil paintings, and deep ornamental gold frames. When buying dry goods to the amount of $30, a choice free, from our collection of fine 22x35 oil paintings. It will pay you to call when wanting anything in dry goods and take advantage of our liberal offer. Bear in mind that these pictures are genuine oil paintings, and not to be confused with chromos. We wish to add that you are not obliged to trade either of the above amounts all at the same time. We give you premium purchase tickets for all sales of $20 or over, and when you have accumulated a certain number, they are good for the oil paintings.

THE MAPLE LOUSE.

A Valuable Paper by Prof. A. B. Seymour on that Subject.

The Cause and Cure, as Presented to the Wisconsin Horticulturists.

Some Interesting Facts.

Prof. A. B. Seymour, of the State University, was to have read a paper at the meeting of the State Horticultural society this morning upon "Parasites," taking as his especial subject the insect that in its most common form is the maple louse. He was unable to be present, but mailed his paper to Secretary Adams. It is as follows:

The soft maple trees in the vicinity of Janesville, Wis., are reported to be suffering seriously this year from the maple louse, and a prominent member of the State Horticultural society, residing at that place, has compiled the following facts. They are chiefly from the excellent paper upon this subject by Miss Emma A. Smith, of Peoria, Ill., in the Seventh Report of the State Entomologist of Illinois:

All bark lice belong to the order of the true bugs, as distinguished from other orders of insects represented by beetles, wasps, flies, etc., which are not true bugs. The true bugs include with the bark lice each other kinds as the squash bug, cimex bug and the ordinary plant lice.

There are various kinds of bark lice, certain of which have at times wrought serious injury to the apple and pine; but most species do not occur in great numbers, that of the maple is rather exceptional in this respect.

The maple bark louse, Aspidiotus perniciosus, was first recorded by Welsh and Riley in the American Entomologist, vol. I, page 14, as received June 26th, 1877, from Indiana. Later, its life history was studied by Mr. J. D. Putnam, of Danvers, Iowa, and in 1877 similar investigations were made by Miss Emma A. Smith, of Peoria, and her results were published in the paper referred to. By that time the insect had spread widely over central and northern Illinois and was doing serious injury. Its ravages have continued since that time with fluctuations. In some places it has disappeared and in some of these, as Bloomington, it has reappeared in full force.

LIFE HISTORY.

The bark lice are seen in spring, fixed lengthwise to the under side of branches. Each louse looks like a dark colored scale covering what appears to be a cottony mass. This is the female insect. During the latter part of May the eggs are laid, and in about three and a half weeks they begin to hatch and the first young lice appear. As soon as they are hatched they move about actively and crawl to the leaves and most of them attach themselves to the under surface near the midrib and principal veins. Some are found on the upper surface, but the under surface is more favorable to their growth, because the epidermis is thinner there, more easily penetrated by their delicate beaks, and they are also better protected. By the beginning of July (in Central Illinois) nearly all the old lice on the branches are found to be dead and most of the new brood have attached themselves to the leaves. During the summer they increase in size and become gradually darker in color. If undisturbed they remain inactive, but if the leaf is picked from the tree, they withdraw their beaks and move about in search of a new place to feed.

When young, the male and female are not to be distinguished, but after a few weeks the males stop growing, go into the pupa state, and then come out with the female. The males are observed by Miss Smith about the middle of August, and continued to appear for over two weeks. Each individual probably lives only a few days, and they are comparatively few in number. During this development of eggs begins; but they are not matured and deposited till the next spring. There is some reason to believe that as in ordinary plant lice the production of matured eggs requires a longer time than for the male and female to take place for every brood and that, in general, in numbers more rapid when the male is absent; and this is not at all impossible. But Miss Smith thinks her observations do not support this view.

Before the fall of the leaves, the insects remove to the branches and attach themselves permanently by inserting their beaks into the bark. During the winter they lie dormant, and in the spring the eggs are matured, to be deposited during the latter part of May.

Early in the month of May the attention is attracted to the ground or sidewalk, underneath the affected trees, which is covered with spots similar to honey-dew, the lower limbs and opening leaves presenting a greenish secretion to the touch, which continues to be noticeable for something over one week before the deposition of eggs commences. This is explained to be either a secretion of sap from numerous punctures in the bark, or more probably, a secretion from the insect itself. The deposition of eggs completed, the insect withdraws its beak from the bark and dies about the beginning of July, leaving its little over a year. It is entirely useless to the bark by means of the cottony mass.

MODES OF SPREADING.

It is not difficult for a mass of eggs to be blown by the wind from one tree to another, and the young may easily crawl upon other insects or birds and so be carried. The most probable way of spreading, however, is by means of the bark lice themselves, which are being carried in great numbers upon and under infested trees, crawling over adjacent fences, sidewalks, etc. It looks almost like a little homing sphere, but considerably flattened, black, with two red spots on its back, the name—Aspidiotus—is written on it.

Before attaining their mature state,

MISCELLANEOUS ADVERTISEMENTS

they appear as short, dark colored larvae, covered with short spines. In both states of development they eat the young leaves. Another kind is Aspidiotus signatus. The larvae are smaller than those of the preceding kind, colored and covered with spines. The mature state is similar to that of the preceding, but smaller. The larvae live in the egg masses, one in each, and eat great numbers of eggs.

The fifteen spotted lady-bird, Aspidiotus, is a parasite, larger but less plentiful than the other two, is also destructive to the bark lice. The larvae are about half an inch long and bear six rows of spines. The mature beetle has a black head and thorax, the remainder of the back brownish red, marked with fifteen black spots. Length of beetle about one third inch.

ARTIFICIAL REMEDIES.

In some cases it may be necessary to remove badly diseased branches. Miss Smith made practical experiments with remedies, and the following recommendations are given: When first hatched, the lice are very tender, and any weak solution will destroy them. By experience it was found that white hollock, when used in a solution of about one pound to twenty gallons of water would soon kill them; a solution of tobacco and soap in water is also good. These may be thrown upon the under surface of the leaves with a fine extinguisher or some other contrivance. A liberal emulsion ought to be effective.

Great care should be taken to avoid injuring the insect enemies of the bark lice, but they are not likely to be injured by weak solutions. The bark lice are very difficult to kill when old and fixed to the branches. Trees to be transplanted should be thoroughly examined and all traces of bark lice should be removed.

OBITUARY.

THOMAS MORGAN.

For several weeks past the seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Morgan has been suffering with a sickness resembling pneumonia. He bore it patiently and it was hoped that he would recover; but to-day, a weight of grief pressed down on the hearts of the parents, for just as the morning was breaking, the little sufferer passed from earth to that land where pain and sorrow are unknown. The time for the funeral has not yet been arranged but will be announced later.

JOHN MORGAN.

Mr. John Hodgdon, father of Mr. J. W. Hodgdon, of the first ward, passed away at his home in Sharon, Tuesday, the 15th inst., of paralysis. Deceased was seventy-seven years of age, and had resided at Sharon for thirty years. The funeral services will be held at the family residence to-morrow (Friday) afternoon at 1:20 o'clock. The remains will be brought to this city and interred in Oak Hill cemetery. Friends of the family are invited to attend the services at the grave at two o'clock p. m.

SHARP PAIN AT THE FOREHEAD

and in the muscles of the neck and shoulder, usually most violent at nightfall, are among the characteristic manifestations of neuritis. It is an affection of the nerve intended by a cold. Recovery, bringing with it a cessation of pain, is induced by Hostetter's stomach bitters, which is a fine nerve tonic and transmutant. It is also a reliable means of checking rheumatism and gout. These ailments have always more or less to do with the kidneys, but, when inactive, fail to throw off the impurities which engender them. The bitters can be relied upon to renew a healthy and purifying action of the renal organs. Besides that it gives tone to the stomach, liver and bowels, and enriches the circulation. Appetite and sleep both profit by it, and it is a well accredited means of fortifying the system against malaria. It hastens the recovery of strength by convalescents, mitigates the infirmities of age, and helps the constitutionally feeble.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MISS WISLAW'S SORORITY SYRUP should be used by every mother for her children. It soothes the child, soothes his pain, allays his crying, cures his colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhea, etc., a bottle.
